

ENDURING LOVE – A LEVEL ENGLISH LITERATURE

The novel's most evident theme is the notion of love and how it surfaces in the interaction of its three main characters:

- 1) Joe,
- 2) his wife, the Keats's scholar Clarissa, and
- 3) the erotomaniac and religious zealot, Jed Parry and his absurd insistence that Joe has fallen in love with him during the balloon incident and that god has ordained their amorous union.

Moreover, the novel presents three main dramatic scenes to dramatise the tensions among the characters:

- 1) an incident with a hot air balloon in which a man falls to his death,
- 2) a failed attempt on Joe's life, and
- 3) Joe's shooting of Parry in defence of Clarissa.

Joe, the rationalist and scientist, represents science, while his wife Clarissa and his stalker (although the term 'stalker' is never used in the novel), Jed Parry, represent the humanities. Immediately therefore we have science versus the humanities – is this telling us of a pre-existing incompatibility between Joe and Clarissa? McEwan's novel however does not simply rely on exploring how scientists and poets differ in their thinking. Ian McEwan provides a reading of a novel that presents a series of interrelated conflicts between scientific, literary, and religious worldviews. Ian McEwan explores human beings with conflicting temperaments and beliefs placed in situations of crisis. Through these crises, the novel investigates and tests the legitimacy of the characters' different worldviews. The advent of an intruder (Jed) into the lives of a seemingly harmonious couple brings to the forefront some innate/ pre-existing flaws in the characters. Until Jed comes into their lives they are oblivious to their incompatibilities. As Jed states "I'm just the messenger" – which turns out to be true – he is not the cause of the breakdown of their relationship he merely brings the flaws to light. "Our easy ways with each other, effortlessly maintained for years, suddenly seemed to me an elaborate construct, a finely balanced artifice, like an ancient carriage clock. We were losing the trick of keeping it going, or of keeping it going without concentrating hard."
