Energy Efficiency In Housing Management Policies And Practice In Eleven Countries:

Energy Efficiency in Housing Management Nico Nieboer, Sasha Tsenkova, Vincent Gruis, Anke van Hal, 2012-07-26

The embedding of energy efficiency in the management of individual housing organisations is crucial for the realization of current ambitious energy efficiency policies. This issue is examined for the first time in this book through an analysis of selected case studies in new green buildings as well as in the retrofitting of existing housing maintenance and budgeting. The links between policy ambitions practice and housing management institutions are given particular attention. Thus the book is primarily concerned with how ambitions about energy efficiency are carried forward in investment decisions at the housing estate level. Technical and financial issues relevant for this are also addressed. The editors combine a wealth of experience in comparative research on housing policy and housing management with a strong academic background in housing studies and economics. The book aims to be internationally comparative including a range of countries. A chapter will be devoted to each of the following countries: Sweden, Denmark, Germany, the Netherlands, England, France, Switzerland, Austria, Czech Republic, Slovenia, Canada. The book will appeal to a large audience of students and academics who are concerned with housing issues, urban policy and politics as well as to those engaged in research in energy efficiency policies in the built environment.

Energy Efficient Affordable Housing Sasha Tsenkova, 2021-04-21. This book provides the first comparative assessment of the energy efficiency retrofit programs in the social housing sector of Canadian cities focusing on program efficiency and effectiveness. The analytical framework explores key policy instruments: regulatory, fiscal and institutional in relation to major results achieved. The approach is interdisciplinary supported by rich empirical data from case studies, observations and interviews. The book explores important strategies for the provision of green and affordable housing while addressing climate change imperatives and resilience issues. This is of great interest to researchers, policy makers, city leaders, professionals and students. Its value added contribution to scholarship is complemented by practical relevance for social housing organisations in countries with a small residual housing sector. It offers valuable lessons for the design, planning and implementation of energy retrofit programs in North America and beyond.

Retrofitting the City Stefan Bouzarovski, 2015-11-25. Cities are responsible for three quarters of the world's energy consumption. If we are to reduce our demands on the planet's resources, how can we make our urban areas more energy efficient? One way is to refit existing buildings with more thermally efficient building materials. But such retrofitting involves significant issues of social acceptance and public participation. Retrofitting the City provides an important corrective to the assumptions that have been made concerning the ability of people and places to cope with such residential transformation. Drawing upon case studies from a number of European cities that have undergone far reaching change in their built environments, the author shows that supposedly inadaptable people and places show a strong, if often hidden, degree of flexibility in responding to economic change and building transformation.

Vernacular Heritage and Earthen Architecture Mariana Correia, Gilberto Carlos, Sandra Rocha, 2013-10-04. In a continuously changing world there has been a growing interest in the protection of vernacular heritage and earthen architecture The need to protect and enhance this fragile heritage via intelligent responses to threats from nature and the environment has become evident Historically vernacular heritage research focussed on philosophical aspe 7
