Earthen Vessels Hopeful Reflections On The Work And Future Of Theological Schools:

Earthen Vessels Daniel O. Aleshire, 2008-06-03 In Earthen Vessels Daniel Aleshire executive director of the Association for Theological Schools makes the case for the future of theological education in a personal and conversational essay Rather than using a historical or analytic approach Aleshire uses what he terms appreciative inquiry to identify the strengths of theological education and how they can support future work in the field By describing this work and its far reaching benefits he aims to inform school board members donors administrators and faculty who may be seeking to understand the bigger picture of their institutions Aleshire organizes the book into three parts The first makes the case for theological schools by describing the work they were intended to do and the contributions they make The second focuses on the nature of their work teaching learning and research Finally the third describes the partners who make this work possible Aleshire notes that much of the future of these schools will be framed by changes in these partners administration the church and the higher education community and the ways that schools change in response Amazon com

Beyond Profession: The Next Future of Theological Education Daniel O. Aleshire, 2021-03-18

Stewards of the Gospel Ronald E. Vallet, 2011-07-22 The word stewardship comes across as stale and mildly distasteful to many in the church today as a term limited in its scope to euphemistic conversations about financial giving Yet as Ronald Vallet points out when the apostle Paul refers to stewards of the mysteries of God 1 Cor 4 1 he is talking about something much deeper and richer than fund raising In Stewards of the Gospel Vallet recovers a more adequate understanding of Christian stewardship in light of both the New Testament and the realities facing today's church as it deals with challenges to justice to the environment and even to faith itself He then applies his reinvigorated concept of stewardship in practical ways to congregations to their pastors and leaders and to the seminaries and denominational structures that mold and support those leaders Enhancing Vallet's broad gospel oriented vision of stewardship are thoughtful responses from six seasoned theological educators Daniel Aleshire David L Bartlett Bruce C Birch Terry Parsons Eugene F Roop and L E Ted Sivers

Missional Transformation: God's Spirit at Work Mark Press, Eugene Bunkowske, 2013 Missiologists and mission oriented folks have been invited to reflect on topics that touch on the transforming power of God's Spirit This series of essays has been produced as one way of celebrating the fascinating missional career of Dr Eugene Bunkowske long time missionary to Africa long time linguist and Bible translator long time seminary professor life long sharer of the Good News of Jesus the Christ This volume offers plenty of meat to engage the serious student of missions but also a number of gems that will enlighten any Christian with a commitment to outreach or an interest in the church's mission Lutheran Church Missouri Synod readers will be especially interested in some of the pieces though any student of Sacred Scripture will benefit from many of the essays

Piety and Plurality Glenn Thomas Miller, 2014-06-09 I began studying American theological education in the 1970s and Piety and Plurality is the third of three studies In Piety and Intellect I examined the colonial and nineteenth century search for a form of theological education that was true to the church's confessional traditions and responsible to the intellectual demands of the age. In Piety and Profession I described how that model was modified under the impact of the new biblical criticism and by the American belief in professionalism. In this volume I have tried to bring the story up to date. Unfortunately I did not find one unifying theme for the period. Rather, theological education seemed to move forward on a number of different levels, each with its own story. Here I have tried to capture some of the dynamics of this movement and to indicate how theological educators have struggled with the plurality in their midst. In the process, theological education has learned to live with its contradictions and problems. As important as the stories are, however, there is also the story of the schools' struggles to live in the midst of a constant financial crisis that checked development at every stage.

T&T Clark Handbook of Christian Prayer, 2021-12-16. The essays collected in this volume provide a resource for thinking theologically about the practice of Christian prayer. In the first of four parts, the volume begins by reaching back to the biblical foundations of prayer. Then each of the chapters in the second part investigates a classical Christian doctrine, including God, creation, Christology, pneumatology, providence, and eschatology, from the perspective of prayer. The chapters in the third part explore the writings of some of the great theorists of prayer in the history of the Christian tradition. The final part gathers a set of creative and critical conversations on prayer responding to a variety of contemporary issues. Overall, the T&T Clark Handbook of Christian Prayer articulates a theologically expansive account of prayer, one that is deeply biblical, energetically doctrinal, historically rooted, and relevant to a whole host of critical questions and concerns facing the world today.

Religious Leadership, Sharon Henderson Callahan, 2013-06-20. This title tackles issues relevant to leadership in the realm of religion. It explores such themes as the contexts in which religious leaders move, leadership in communities of faith, leadership as taught in theological education and training, religious leadership impacting social change and social justice, and more. Topics are examined from multiple perspectives, traditions, and faiths.

The British National Bibliography, Arthur James Wells, 2009.

Faithcare, Daniel O. Aleshire, 1988-01-01. This helpful book provides the link between theories about learning and human development and the tasks of pastors. Daniel Aleshire shows that paying attention to people can be the source of knowledge about the congregation and the basis for ministry, education, and Christian nurture.

Looking Forward with Hope, Benjamin Valentin, 2019-11-01. Theological schools are currently facing a perfect storm of jeopardies that threatens their future prospects and even survivability. The squall is all the more menacing for free-standing seminaries that are not connected to a university and especially for free-standing mainline Protestant or mainline denominational seminaries. This book brings together a stellar and diverse cast of administrators and professors working within different theological schools to reflect on the present crisis of theological education and on the question of the possible future of mainline Protestant and mainline denominational theological schools in the United States.

Disruption and Hope, Barbara G. Wheeler, 2019. During times of rapid social and religious change, leadership rooted in tradition and committed to the future is the foundation upon which theological schools stand. Theological education owes itself to countless predecessors who paved the way for a thriving academic culture that holds together faith and learning Daniel O Aleshire is one of these forerunners who devoted his career to educating future generations through institutional reforms In honor of Aleshire s decades of leadership over the Association of Theological Schools the essays in this book propose methods for schools of various denominational backgrounds to restructure the form and content of their programs by resourcing their own distinctive Christian heritages Four essayists former seminary presidents explore the ideas doctrines and ways of life in their schools traditions to identify the essential characteristics that will carry their institutions into the future Additionally two academic leaders focus on the contributions and challenges for Christian schools presented by non Christian traditions in a rapidly pluralizing landscape Together these six essays offer a pattern of authentic innovative movement for theological institutions to take toward revitalization as they face new trials and possibilities with faithfulness and hope This volume concludes with closing words by the honoree himself offering ways to learn from and grow through Aleshire s legacy Contributors Barbara G Wheeler Richard J Mouw Martha J Horne Donald Senior David L Tiede Judith A Berling Daniel O Aleshire Courage Beyond Fear Katie Day, Deirdre Joy Good, 2019 The aim of this book Courage Beyond Fear Re Formation in Theological Education is to combat actual crises we have survived in theological institutions We first document responses of resistance to authoritarian structures in student and faculty meditations and sermons Then through them we identify dispositions in community crises shock witness flight or fight marginalization power in community and forgiveness Behind these dispositions we identify strategies opposition without rancor shared authority vulnerability and truth telling hope without expectation courage beyond fear humility without humiliation The book proposes that these strategies of formation and resistance can be deployed in other authoritarian and paternalistic contexts This book also describes actual realities behind public statements of institutional changes and catastrophes through process not outcomes It is the first description of actual crises in theological schools from student faculty and staff perspectives This poignant book bespeaks both the fears and trauma experienced by those immersed in theological education today as well as the courage and conviction needed to face the task of re formation What is often missing from these discussions is a recognition of the human and spiritual cost of these organizational changes and what this means for religious leadership in the years to come Ultimately this book testifies to the power of forgiveness and the reality of resurrection the voices in these narratives continue on as teachers and have much to offer the church as we live in hope with an unknown future Though many seminaries and theological schools remain fragile in terms of material resources the resources of our faith exist in abundance there Sheryl A Kujawa Holbrook Vice President for Academic Affairs Dean of the Faculty Claremont School of Theology How often is it that clergy and faculty concerned about the future of the Church and schools of theology get together to offer their thoughts about critical moments of change and crisis Not often enough The authors of the chapters within this book through sermons and reflections detail painful vocational experiences national crises and the ongoing impact of racism in each of our lives An excellent and much needed text Pamela Lightsey Vice President for Academic and Student Affairs Associate Professor of Constructive Theology Meadville Lombard Theological School Katie Day is the Charles A Schieren Professor of Church and Society at the United Lutheran Seminary at Philadelphia She is the author of Faith On The Avenue Religion on a City Street 2014 Currently she is conducting research on God and Guns looking at the role of religion in the construction of meaning and public discourse on guns Deirdre Good is a lay preacher in the Diocese of Maine and a faculty member at the Stevenson School for Ministry in the Diocese of Central Pennsylvania She is the author of Jesus Family Values 2006 and Mariam the Magdalen and the Mother 2005 Attempt Great Things for God Chloe T. Sun, 2020-11-17 Celebrating the contributions of the ethnic seminary in America While the narrative of decline haunts churches and seminaries in the United States there is great hope to be found in the explosive growth of Christian populations in Latin America Africa and Asia In light of this much can be learned from points of intersection between the minority and majority worlds such as Logos Evangelical Seminary an ATS accredited Chinese language seminary in California the first in the US Chloe Sun makes the case here for why an ethnic seminary like Logos has much to teach us about the evolving possibilities for theological education in a society of cultural exchange with many populations living in diaspora Sun a professor of Old Testament at Logos has herself been formed by an array of cultural influences She was raised by Chinese parents who were born in Vietnam she grew up hearing multiple languages and she has lived in China Hong Kong and the United States With this unique background she recognizes and extols the richness of pluralism recognizing in it the work of God akin to the diversity instantiated at the biblical Pentecost event The title of this book comes from Logos s motto Attempt great things for God rescue millions of souls In this spirit Sun s vision is one of both humility and ambition which begins by honoring the particularity of a person or group of people and then moves outward to the universal all inclusive movement of the Holy Spirit Transforming Service Dr. Shonda R. Jones, Pamela R. Lightsey, 2020-05-18 Transforming Service is a seminal book developed by student services professionals in theological education This edited volume is new and innovative in that it puts the student services professional and their work with divinity students center stage Amid the various and serious changes afoot within the church and academy there is a need for astute and perceptive expertise to assist professionals and institutions in transforming how to reach serve and sustain graduate students in theological education This book is an offering designed to establish and sustain conversations among student services professionals in theological schools about the nature of the profession and to share wisdom within a rich community of practice that is essential to the success of theological schools With its rich combination of useful information reflective instruction on a host of professional leadership issues and animated narratives on the ways different colleagues address common practices and challenges in their context Transforming Service is a needed resource to all who engage in theological education To Teach, To Delight, and To Move David S. Cunningham, 2004-10-22 This book initiates a new conversation about how theological education might be re envisioned for the twenty first century church The prevailing curricular structure in today s seminaries and divinity schools was fashioned in a very different era one that assumed the continued cultural dominance of Christianity and the continued academic dominance of the canons of Enlightenment reason Neither assumption is viable in today s post Christian world hence our new circumstances demand a new vision for theological education The authors of this volume offer an important resource for this project through their creative appropriation of the classical rhetorical tradition particularly as it has been rehabilitated in the contemporary context Like St Augustine they believe that the chief goals of Christian theology are similar to those of classical rhetoric to teach to delight and to move And the authors are united in their conviction that these must also be the goals of theological education in a post Christian era This volume arises out of a passionate commitment to the cause of theological education The authors hail from a wide range of denominational traditions and have taught in numerous seminaries and divinity schools They have also studied the classical and postmodern rhetorical traditions in both theory and practice They met as a group on numerous occasions to read one another s contributions to the volume and to offer guidance for the process of rewriting As a result this book is much more than a mere collection of essays it is a jointly authored work and one which presents an integrated vision for the future of theological education

Understanding and Developing Theological Education Bernhard Ott,2016-01-31 Historically education has been driven from behind the history and above the educational institution Traditions and adherence requirements have led to inflexible models of school leadership that are focused on administration and rife with educational politics In contrast today s theological landscape needs institutions with a grassroots driven educational system looking to a future that is biblically and theologically grounded This publication an English translation from the original German focuses on the leadership and curriculum development required for such a paradigm shift Ott comprehensively assesses trends in current theological education across the world with detailed reference to wider trends in global tertiary education Written primarily for those in leadership roles at theological schools and training institutions this handbook is an essential resource for equipping the next generation of leaders in theological education

The Future of Theological Education Stephen Ray Graham,2011 Horizons of Theological Education American Association of Theological Schools,Charles Lincoln Taylor,1966 Practical Wisdom Malcolm L. Warford,2004 Contemporary theological education is facing profound changes Fundamental shifts in both church and society have established a volatile context for theological teaching and learning Seminaries are struggling with the growing diversity of their students faculties and institutional commitments This book addresses these issues both contextually and historically engages the nature of theological teaching and learning and offers educational practices that strengthen the vocation of teaching and enhance the school as a place of conversation
