

1. Introduction

The introduction moves from general to specific. This is where you:

- open with a short orientation (introduce the topic area(s) with a general, broad opening sentence (or two);
- answer the question with a thesis statement; and
- provide a summary or 'road map' of your essay (keep it brief, but mention all the main ideas).

2. Body

The body of your essay consists of paragraphs. Each is a building block in the construction of your argument. The body is where you:

- answer the question by developing a discussion.
- show your knowledge and grasp of material you have read.
- offer exposition and evidence to develop your argument.
- use relevant examples and authoritative quotes.

If your question has more than one part, structure the body into sections that deal with each part of the question.

Conclusion

The conclusion moves from specific to general. It should:

- restate your answer to the question;
- re-summarise the main points and;
- include a final, broad statement (about possible implications, future directions for research, to qualify the conclusion etc).

However, NEVER introduce new information or ideas in the conclusion - its purpose is to round off your essay by summing up.

Landmark Essays on ESL Writing Tony Silva, Paul Kei Matsuda, 2013-10-31 In recent years the number of nonnative speakers of English in colleges and universities in North America has increased dramatically. As a result more and more writing teachers have found themselves working with these English as a Second Language (ESL) students in writing classes that are designed primarily with monolingual native English speaking students in mind. Since the majority of institutions require these students to enroll in writing courses at all levels it is becoming increasingly important for all writing teachers to be aware of the presence and special linguistic and cultural needs of ESL writers. This increase in the ESL population has over the last 40 years been paralleled by a similar growth in research on ESL writing and writing instruction research that writing teachers need to be familiar with in order to work effectively with ESL writers in writing classrooms of all levels and types. Until recently however this body of knowledge has not been very accessible to writing teachers and researchers who do not specialize in second language research and instruction. This volume is an attempt to remedy this problem by providing a sense of how ESL writing scholarship has evolved over the last four decades. It brings together 15 articles that address various issues in second language writing in general and ESL writing in particular. In selecting articles for inclusion the editors tried to take a principled approach. The articles included in this volume have been chosen from a large database of publications in second language writing. The editors looked for works that mirrored the state of the art when they were published and made a conscious effort to represent a wide variety of perspectives, contributions, and issues in the field. To provide a sense of the evolution of the field this collection is arranged in chronological order. Handbook of Automated Essay Evaluation Mark D. Shermis, Jill Burstein, 2013-07-18 This comprehensive interdisciplinary handbook reviews the latest methods and technologies used in automated essay evaluation (AEE) methods and technologies. Highlights include the latest in the evaluation of performance based writing assessments and recent advances in the teaching of writing, language testing, cognitive psychology, and computational linguistics. This greatly expanded follow up to Automated Essay Scoring reflects the numerous advances that have taken place in the field since 2003 including automated essay scoring and diagnostic feedback. Each chapter features a common structure including an introduction and a conclusion. Ideas for diagnostic and evaluative feedback are sprinkled throughout the book. Highlights of the book's coverage include: The latest research on automated essay evaluation. Descriptions of the major scoring engines including the E-rater, the Intelligent Essay Assessor, the Intellimetric™ Engine, e-rater™ and LightSIDE. Applications of the uses of the technology including a large scale system used in West Virginia. A systematic framework for evaluating research and technological results. Descriptions of AEE methods that can be replicated for languages other than English as seen in the example from China. Chapters from key researchers in the field. The book opens with an introduction to AEEs and a review of the best practices of teaching writing along with tips on the use of automated analysis in the classroom. Next the book highlights the capabilities and applications of several scoring engines including the E rater the Intelligent Essay Assessor the Intellimetric™ engine c rater™ and LightSIDE Here readers will find an actual application of the use of an AEE in West Virginia psychometric issues related to AEEs such as validity reliability and scaling and the use of automated scoring to detect reader drift grammatical errors discourse coherence quality and the impact of human rating on AEEs A review of the cognitive foundations underlying methods used in AEE is also provided The book concludes with a comparison of the various AEE systems and speculation about the future of the field in light of current educational policy Ideal for educators professionals curriculum specialists and administrators responsible for developing writing programs or distance learning curricula those who teach using AEE technologies policy makers and researchers in education writing psychometrics cognitive psychology and computational linguistics this book also serves as a reference for graduate courses on automated essay evaluation taught in education computer science language linguistics and cognitive psychology     Assessing the English Language Writing of Chinese Learners of English Liz

Hamp-Lyons, Yan Jin, 2022-05-24 This book focuses on the assessment of English language writing in China mainland the territories of Hong Kong and Macau and Taiwan The first part of the book describes how writing in English has been assessed in Chinese contexts in the past 25 years and how it continues to be assessed at present The second part of the book presents reports of work such as formative classroom based assessment feedback based or feedback led approaches learning oriented assessment portfolios as well as the important issue of teacher professional development in writing assessment This two part division relates to and reflects what has been happening in writing assessment internationally in the UK from the 1940s and in the US in the past 25 years The use of English for international business communication for international political negotiations and its rapidly increasing use as a medium of instruction in some subject areas has led to a rapid increase in the numbers of Chinese L1 speakers who are learning and being assessed in English This is often done with an emphasis on reading and writing The vast majority of assessments of English language writing are done through large scale direct testing that uses simple prompts tasks and short writing samples This book explores best practices in assessing the writing in English of native speakers of Chinese Assessing the English Language Writing of Chinese Learners of English edited by long time experts Liz Hamp Lyons and Yan Jin clearly demonstrates the authors collective years of writing and teaching about writing assessment The book s 13 chapters written by recognized experts in assessment of Chinese speakers learning English represent a wide array of important topics written in reader friendly language and offering evidence for pedagogical practices as well as high stakes testing of writing Teachers researchers administrators of writing programs in China and test developers who seek counsel about this population need look no further than to add Assessing the English Language Writing of Chinese Learners of English to their reading list Deborah Crusan Wright State University USA

CliffsTestPrep Praxis II: English Subject Area Assessments (0041, 0042, 0043, 0048, 0049) Diane E Kern, 2011-11-30 A veteran hockey writer takes on hockey culture and the NHL addressing the games most controversial issue Whether its on ice fist fights or head shots into the glass hockey has become a nightly news spectacle with players pummeling and bashing each other across the ice like drunken gladiators And while the NHL may actually condone on ice violence as a ticket draw diehard hockey fan and expert Adam Proteau argues against hockeys transformation into a thuggish blood sport In Fighting the Good Fight Proteau sheds light on the many perspectives of those in and around the game with interviews of current and former NHL stars coaches general managers and league executives as well as medical experts One of the most well known media figures on the hockey scene today famous for his funny feisty observations as a writer for the Toronto Star and The Hockey News and commentator on CBC radio and TV Adam Proteau is also one of the few mainstream media voices who is vehemently anti fighting in hockey Not only is his book a plea to the games gatekeepers to finally clamp down on the runaway violence that permeates the sport even at its highest level he offers realistic suggestions on ways to finally clean the game up Includes interviews with medical experts on head injuries and concussions as well as with other members of the media The author not only wages an attack on the value of fighting in hockey but also on the establishment hockey culture Covering the most polarizing issue in hockey today Fighting the Good Fight gives hockey fans and sports lovers everywhere a reason to stamp their feet and whistle at a rare display of eloquence and common sense WebCatUpdater Profile_5
