Teaching Academic ESL Writing Eli Hinkel, 2003-10-17 Teaching Academic ESL Writing Practical Techniques in Vocabulary and Grammar fills an important gap in teacher professional preparation by focusing on the grammatical and lexical features that are essential for all ESL writing teachers and student writers to know The fundamental assumption is that before students of English for academic purposes can begin to successfully produce academic writing they must have the foundations of language in place the language tools grammar and vocabulary they need to build a text This text offers a compendium of techniques for teaching writing grammar and lexis to second language learners that will help teachers effectively target specific problem areas of students writing Based on the findings of current research including a large scale study of close to 1 500 non native speakers essays this book works with several sets of simple rules that collectively can make a noticeable and important difference in the quality of ESL students writing The teaching strategies and techniques are based on a highly practical principle for efficiently and successfully maximizing learners language gains Part I provides the background for the text and a sample of course curriculum guidelines to meet the learning needs of second language teachers of writing and second language writers Parts II and III include the key elements of classroom teaching what to teach and why possible ways to teach the material in the classroom common errors found in student prose and ways to teach students to avoid them teaching activities and suggestions and questions for discussion in a teacher training course Appendices to chapters provide supplementary word and phrase lists collocations sentence chunks and diagrams that teachers can use as needed The book is designed as a text for courses that prepare teachers to work with post secondary EAP students and as a professional resource for teachers of students in EAP courses

Form-Focused Instruction and Second Language Learning Rod Ellis, 2001-06-08 How does classroom language learning take place How does an understanding of second language acquisition contribute to language teaching In answering these questions Rod Ellis reviews a wide range of research on classroom learning developing a theory of instructed second language acquisition that has significant implications for language teaching The early chapters of this book trace the attempts to explain classroom language learning in terms of general theory of learning behaviorism and the study of naturalistic language learning The middle chapters document the attempts of researchers to enter the black box of the classroom in order to describe the teaching learning behaviors that take place there and to investigate to what extent and in what ways instruction results in acquisition The book concludes with a theory of classroom language learning This theory advances an explanation of the relationship between explicit and implicit linguistic knowledge and in so doing accounts for how both form focused and meaning focused instruction contribute to second language acquisition in the classroom Pathways to Multilingualism Tara Williams Fortune, Diane J. Tedick, 2008 Aimed at facilitating cross context dialogue knowledge exchange this volume brings together an international roster of scholars to offer theoretical perspectives research reviews empirical studies on teaching learning language development in immersion education Error Correction in the Foreign Language Classroom Mirosław Pawlak, 2013-08-13 The book aims to dispel some of the myths surrounding the place of oral and written error correction in language education by providing an exhaustive and up to date account of issues involved in this area taking the stance that the provision of corrective feedback constitutes an integral part of form focused instruction This account places an equal emphasis on the relevant theoretical claims the most recent research findings and everyday pedagogical concerns particularly as they apply to the teaching of additional languages in the foreign language setting The book will be of relevance and significance not only to specialists in the field of second language acquisition but also to graduate and doctoral students carrying out research in the area of form focused instruction and error correction Many parts of the volume will also be of considerable interest and utility to teachers of foreign languages at different educational levels The Routledge Handbook of Second Language Acquisition and Pragmatics Naoko Taguchi, 2019-01-30 The Routledge Handbook of Second Language Acquisition and Pragmatics is a comprehensive critical survey of the field of L2 pragmatics collecting a number of chapters that highlight the key theories methods pedagogies and research findings throughout its development over the last four decades Demonstrating the ways in which pragmatics has long served as a lens through which to examine patterns of L2 development the volume is divided into six parts which reflect the field's structure and evolution Constructs and units of analysis Theoretical approaches Methodological approaches Pedagogical approaches Contexts and individual considerations L2 pragmatics in the global era The handbook has a particular focus on covering not only traditional topics in the field such as constructs of pragmatic competence e g speech acts implicature teaching and assessment and pragmatics learning in a study abroad program but also emerging areas of study including interactional pragmatics intercultural pragmatics usage based approaches corpus linguistics and psycholinguistic experimentation Each chapter introduces the topic and follows with a description of its theoretical underpinnings an overview of existing literature appraisal of current practice concluding with a discussion of future directions for research and key readings The Routledge Handbook of Second Language Acquisition and Pragmatics is an essential resource for those with an interest in second language acquisition pragmatics and language teaching Introduction to Instructed Second Language Acquisition Shawn Loewen, 2020-03-09 Now in its second edition Introduction to Instructed Second Language Acquisition continues to present a cohesive view of the different theoretical and pedagogical perspectives that comprise instructed second language acquisition ISLA Loewen provides comprehensive discussions of the theoretical empirical and pedagogical aspects of a range of key issues in ISLA and has added to this edition a comprehensive exploration of the relationship between ISLA research and second language pedagogy

THE EFFECTS OF EXPLICIT FORM-FOCUSED INSTRUCTION ON L2 ORAL PROFICIENCY DEVELOPMENT Shzh-chen Nancy Lee, 2019 This study was an examination of the effects of explicit form focused instruction on the English development of Japanese university students during a seven week intervention Speaking proficiency development is a continuous challenge for most EFL learners who have limited exposure to the target language outside the classroom Within the communicative language teaching paradigm task based language learning TBLT has been considered an effective approach for developing students speaking proficiency However while TBLT has been increasingly implemented in English language classrooms investigations in which explicit form focused instruction has been integrated into task based speaking tasks are limited This longitudinal classroom based study had five purposes The first purpose was to examine the development of speaking proficiency in terms of syntactic complexity syntactic accuracy and oral fluency The second purpose was to examine the development of speaking proficiency by comparing learners who received form focused instruction with those who did not receive form focused instruction by examining differences in their syntactic complexity syntactic accuracy and oral fluency development The third purpose was to quantitatively and qualitatively examine the week to week trajectory of changes in speaking proficiency development The fourth purpose was to examine learner affective variables The final purpose was to examine the participants perceptions concerning the development of speaking proficiency based on their self assessments The participants were 104 first year students enrolled in a Japanese university All of the participants narrated a different four picture cartoon in English once a week for nine weeks The participants were divided into one comparison group and two intervention groups form focused instruction FFI and form focused instruction and peer feedback FFI PF The form focused instruction intervention included ten minutes of grammar instruction focused on three past tense forms simple past past continuous and past perfect as well as ten minutes of peer feedback Between the pretest and posttest the FFI and FFI PF participants received seven weeks of instruction before their weekly cartoon narration Participants in the comparison group did not receive any weekly interventions The pretest and posttest narration data of all participants were transcribed and analyzed using six CAF measurements mean length of T unit clause T unit ratio percentage of error free T units percentage of accurate past tense usage speech rate and self repair Moreover the pretest and posttest narrations recorded by all of the participants were analytically rated by three raters From the sample of 104 participants nine participants three representatives from each group were chosen for a week to week trajectory analysis in which their six CAF performances were qualitatively and quantitatively analyzed All of the participants completed two questionnaires after taking the pretest and posttest I developed both questionnaires based on previous literature related to second language speaking proficiency development The English Speaking Learner Affect Questionnaire was used to examine differences in participants classroom English speaking anxiety English speaking self efficacy and desire to speak English The Self Assessment of Speaking Task Questionnaire was used to examine changes in the participants self assessment of their own performances in terms of syntactic complexity syntactic accuracy and oral fluency The results indicated that form focused instruction was effective at improving the participants global syntactic accuracy and their accurate use of the simple past tense However form focused instruction did not lead to improvements in syntactic complexity or oral fluency However explicit form focused instruction did not lead to detrimental effects on syntactic complexity or oral fluency thus form focused instruction did not appear to stimulate trade off effects between syntactic complexity syntactic accuracy and oral fluency The analytical ratings provided by the raters indicated that form focused instruction did not lead to significant improvements in terms of syntactic complexity syntactic accuracy or oral fluency The results also indicated that the form focused instruction intervention was effective at quickly improving syntactic accuracy because participants who received both form focused instruction and peer feedback improved more quickly in the simple past compared to the participants who only received form focused instruction However the participants who improved syntactic accuracy quickly might have experienced trade offs with oral fluency ability as improvements in speed fluency were not noted until their syntactic accuracy reached a ceiling effect where their global accuracy and accurate use of simple past tense stopped to improve The results indicated that form focused instruction did not influence classroom English speaking anxiety as there was no significant difference seen between participants who received form focused instruction and participants who did not However an excessive amount of form focused instruction might have negative impacts on speaking anxiety because the participants who received both form focused instruction and peer feedback showed an increase in their classroom English speaking anxiety On the other hand form focused instruction had no impact on English speaking self efficacy and it had positive effects on the desire to speak English because the participants who received both form focused instruction and peer feedback exhibited a significant increase in their desire to speak English compared to the participants who did not receive form focused instruction and the participants who received only form focused instruction Finally based on the learners self assessment form focused instruction had no effects on speaking proficiency development as there was no difference in self assessed syntactic complexity syntactic accuracy and oral fluency between the participants in the three groups Participants who received form focused instruction interventions did not assess themselves to having higher syntactic accuracy despite their improvements on the CAF measures

Language Teaching Research and Language Pedagogy Rod Ellis, 2012-01-17 This book examines current research centered on the second language classroom and the implications of this research for both the teaching and learning of foreign languages It offers illuminating insights into the important relationship between research and teaching and the inherent complexities of the teaching and learning of foreign languages in classroom settings Offers an accessible overview of a range of research on instruction and learning in the L2 classroom Bridges the relationship between research teachers and learners Helps evolve the practice of dedicated current language teachers with research findings that suggest best practices for language teaching Learning and Teaching Languages Through Content Roy Lyster, 2007-03-14 Based on a synthesis of classroom SLA research that has helped to shape evolving perspectives of content based instruction since the introduction of immersion programs in Montreal more than 40 years ago this book presents an updated perspective on integrating language and content in ways that engage second language learners with language across the curriculum A range of instructional practices observed in immersion and content based classrooms is highlighted to set the stage for justifying a counterbalanced approach that integrates both content based and form focused instructional options as complementary ways of intervening to develop a learner s interlanguage system A counterbalanced approach is outlined as an array of opportunities for learners to process language through content by means of comprehension awareness and production mechanisms and to negotiate language through content by means of interactional strategies involving teacher scaffolding and feedback

Linguistics and Language Behavior Abstracts ,2009-04 Speaking and Instructed Foreign Language Acquisition Mirosław Pawlak,Ewa Waniek-Klimczak,Jan Majer,2011-07-04 Developing the ability to speak in a foreign language is an arduous task This is because it involves the mastery of different language subsystems simultaneous focus on comprehension and production and the impact of a range of social factors This challenge is further compounded in situations in which learners have limited access to the target language Thus there is a need to explore issues related to teaching learning and testing speaking with a view to translating the guidelines based on theoretical positions and research findings into feasible and context specific pedagogical recommendations This is the rationale behind this book which considers speaking from leading theoretical perspectives investigates individual variables which affect its development and reports the results of studies focusing on different aspects of its instructed acquisition Reformulation, Noticing, and Second Language Writing Rebecca Raewyn Sachs,2003 EFL Teaching in Saxon Secondary Education. Language Construction and Foreign Language Teaching Katharina Maschke,2023-03-09 Master s Thesis from the year 2021 in the subject Didactics Common Didactics Educational Objectives Methods grade 1 7 Technical University of Chemnitz English and American Studies language English abstract Throughout this thesis extensive literature research aims at answering the question of what benefits teaching language construction processes can bring to teaching English as a foreign language As a more practical part a curriculum is developed based on insights from the literature and the Saxon state curriculum as a framework for all teaching in Saxon state schools After the presentation of the curriculum this thesis discusses its content and the theoretical background justifies the decisions in its development gives an honest overview of its advantages and challenges In the conclusion a presentation of limitations and implications completes the thesis Language construction describes the intentional development of a language Even though this is often used for fictional works or linguistic experiments the processes of language construction could also be used for natural languages Not only does language construction require and foster the ability to reflect on language meaning metalinguistic awareness but it leads learners to an active engagement with the language Learners would be given the toolset of metalinguistic awareness as an approach to all languages and language features they encounter Understanding Second Language Process Zhao Hong Han, Eun Sung Park, 2008 This book assembles 11 analytical and empirical studies on the process of second language acquisition probing a wide array of issues from transfer appropriate processing to L2 default processing strategies among hearing or deaf learners of a variety of target languages including English Japanese Chinese Korean French Spanish and American Sign Language Although instruction per se is not the focus of this volume the chapters are written with instructed learners in mind and hence offer valuable insights for both second and foreign language researchers and practitioners
