Forest Mensuration Managing Forest Ecosystems:

Forest Mensuration Anthonie van Laar, Alparslan Akça, 2007-07-20 Forest mensuration is one of the most fundamental disciplines within forest and related sciences. It deals with the measurement of trees and stands and the analysis of the resultant information. During the early days of sustained forest management, simple measurement and estimation methods and with the analysis of inventory and research data were available. The middle of last century however witnessed a worldwide increase in the need for more quantitative information about trees and stands. This generated the need for more sophisticated methods to obtain and analyze forest data. This development was followed by a phenomenal explosion of information. During the past decades there has been fruitful cooperation between the Institute of Forest Inventory and Forest Growth formerly Institute of Forest Management and Forest Yield Sciences of the University of Göttingen, Germany and the Faculty of Forestry of the University of Stellenbosch, South Africa. This book is one of the results of this fruitful cooperation between these institutions.

Forest Mensuration John A. Kershaw, Jr., Mark J. Ducey, Thomas W. Beers, Bertram Husch, 2016-11-01 Forest mensuration, the science of measurement applied to forest vegetation and forest products, holds value for basic ecology as well as sustainable forest management. As demands on the world's forests have grown, scientists and professionals are increasingly called on to quantify forest composition, structure, and the goods and services forests provide. Grounded in geometry, sampling theory, and ecology as well as practical field experience, forest mensuration offers opportunities for creative problem solving and critical thinking. This fifth edition of the classic volume Forest Mensuration includes coverage of traditional and emerging topics with attention to SI and Imperial units throughout. The book has been reorganised from the fourth edition to better integrate non-timber and ecological aspects of forest mensuration at the tree stand, forest, and landscape scales throughout. The new edition includes new chapters that specifically address the integration of remotely sensed data in the forest inventory process and inventory methods for dead and downed wood. One unifying theme, not only for traditional forestry but for the non-timber inventory and for remote sensing, is the use of covariates to make sampling more efficient and spatially explicit. This is introduced in the introductory chapter on statistics and the chapter on sampling designs has been restructured to highlight this approach and lay the foundation for further learning. New examples will be developed throughout the textbook with an emphasis on current issues and international practice. Students in applied forestry programs will find ample coverage of forest products and timber inventory, while expanded material on biodiversity, biomass, and carbon inventory, downed dead wood, and the growing role of remote sensing in forest assessment will be valuable to a broader audience in applied ecology.

Forest Inventory Annika Kangas, Matti Maltamo, 2006-02-19 This book has been developed as a forest inventory textbook for students and could also serve as a handbook for practical foresters. We have set out to keep the mathematics in the book at a fairly non-technical level and therefore, although we deal with many issues that include highly sophisticated methodology, we try to present first and foremost the ideas behind them. For foresters who need more details references are given to more advanced scientific papers and books in the fields of statistics and biometrics Forest inventory books deal mostly with sampling and measurement issues as found here in section I but since forest inventories in many countries involve much more than this we have also included material on forestry applications Most applications nowadays involve remote sensing technology of some sort so that section II deals mostly with the use of remote sensing material for this purpose Section III deals with national inventories carried out in different parts of world and section IV is an attempt to outline some future possibilities of forest inventory methodologies The editors Annika Kangas Professor of Forest Mensuration and Management Department of Forest Resource Management University of Helsinki Matti Maltamo Professor of Forest Mensuration Faculty of Forestry University of Joensuu
