Doctors Within Borders Doctors Within Borders:

Domestic Nationalism Chiara Formichi, 2025-10-28 Chiara Formichi argues that Muslim women in Java and Sumatra from the late 1910s to the 1950s were central to Indonesia's progress as guardians and promoters of health and piety through gendered activities of care work. While sidelined in the Dutch colonial project of hygienic modernity, women's labor of social reproduction became increasingly visible. Women from all walks of life were called upon to fulfill domestic and motherly roles for the production and socialization of laborers, soldiers, and citizens. The medicalization of cleanliness intersecting with multiple patriarchal orders marginalized women's traditional influence and knowledge. However, leveraging the critical importance of infant care, cleanliness, and nutrition, women pushed against the boundaries imposed on them by the colonial and postcolonial state. Largely absent from government archives, their words and acts are evident in vernacular magazines and visual sources drawn from official outreach, news, and lifestyle media and advertisements. Women writers rearticulated scientific mothering, nationalist maternalism, and Islamic ideals of motherhood to create a public voice through gendered care work. Domestic Nationalism proposes that as the modern Indonesian nation-state took shape, capitalizing on the public function of mothering, so did homemaking become a crossroads of national and international approaches to development, blurring nonaligned self-reliance and global capitalist interests.

Migrant and Refugee Access to Health Systems

Luca Follis, Karolina Follis, Nicola Burns, 2025-05-14 In light of the ongoing struggle faced by migrants and refugees trying to access healthcare, this thought-provoking book tackles key issues at the intersection of mobility and health. It critically engages with the bureaucratic, economic, and cultural barriers faced by these groups, arguing that a sedentary bias persists in national health systems.

Renaming Plants and Nations in Japanese Colonial Korea Jung Lee, 2025-04-10 This book studies a striking example of intensely negotiated colonial scientific practice: the case of botanical practice in Korea during the Japanese colonisation from 1910 to 1945. The shared aim of botanists who encountered one another in colonial Korea to practise modern Western botany is successfully revealed through analysis of their fieldwork and subsequent publications. By exploring the variations in what that term should mean and the politically charged nature of the interactions between both imperial and colonial players, it reveals how botanists of the region created a form of scientific practice that was neither clearly Western nor particularly modern. It shows how the botany that evolved in this context was a product of colonially resourced, globally connected practice immersed in intertwined traditions rather than simply a copy of modern Western botany. Utilizing extensive primary sources, this book will be of interest to students and scholars of the history of science, colonial Korean history, and environmental history.

Disease, Colonialism, and the State Ka-che YIP, 2009-01-01 Studying malaria in modern East Asia in the context of the global history of the disease, this book fills an important gap in our understanding of the cultural, social, economic, and political dimensions of the relationship between malaria and human society in a region which has often been neglected by historians of the disease. The authors examine the development and consequences of various anti malaria strategies in Hong Kong Okinawa Taiwan mainland China and East Asia as a whole The British and Japanese colonial models of disease control are explored as is the later American technological model of DDT residue spraying promoted by the Rockefeller Foundation which played a significant role in the global anti malaria campaign and the development of public health in Asia In the post World War II period the use of DDT and international political and economic interests helped to shape anti malaria policies of the Nationalist government in Taiwan In mainland China the Beijing government s mass mobilization and primary health care model of anti malaria control has given way to new strategies as recent changes in the health care system have affected anti malaria efforts and public health developments This book illuminates an important and largely unexplored dimension of the history of malaria the interplay of the state colonial or sovereign international interests new medical knowledge and technology changing concepts of health and disease as well as local society in the formulation and implementation of anti malaria policies It will be of interest to historians of colonialism medicine and public health Asia as well as health and social policy planners

Medical Women in the Japanese Empire

Hiro Fujimoto,Aya Homei,Ellen Gardner Nakamura,2025-06-18 Fujimoto Homei and Nakamura bring together the perspectives of women engaging in professional medical work across the expanse of the modern Japanese Empire 1868 1945 Through translations of primary source documents in three East Asian languages this collection provides a window into the experiences of women working in a variety of medical professions including doctors nurses midwives and nutritionists The voices of these women collected from books magazines diaries roundtable discussions and oral histories speak of the challenges hopes triumphs and at times despair that women faced in their medical studies and workplaces While the women represent a kaleidoscope of political views both critical and supportive of the Japanese empire this book demonstrates the significance of the Japanese nation and empire for many of these women Their stories show how they pushed boundaries traversed national or regional borders in search of medical opportunities or attempted to carve out new spaces for women through their service as medical professionals This work which includes little studied sources never before accessible in English will appeal to scholars and students of history Asian studies gender history studies and the history of science technology and medicine

A Medicated Empire Timothy M. Yang,2021-06-15 Winner of the 2022 Hagley Prize in Business History In A Medicated Empire Timothy M Yang explores the history of Japan s pharmaceutical industry in the early twentieth century through a close account of Hoshi Pharmaceuticals one of East Asia s most influential drug companies from the late 1910s through the early 1950s Focusing on Hoshi s connections to Japan s emerging nation state and empire as well as the ways in which it embraced an ideology of modern medicine as a humanitarian endeavor Yang shows how the industry promoted a hygienic middle class culture that was part of Japan s national development and imperial expansion Yang demonstrates that the company s fortunes had less to do with scientific breakthroughs and medical innovations than with Japan s web of social political and economic relations He lays bare Hoshi s business strategies and its connections with politicians and bureaucrats and he describes how public health authorities dismissed many of its products as placebos at best and poisons at worst Combining global histories of business medicine and imperialism A Medicated Empire illuminates how the development of the pharmaceutical industry simultaneously supported and subverted regimes of public health at home and abroad

Doctors Without Borders Renée C. Fox, 2014-06-01 An intimate portrait of the renowned international humanitarian organization Winner of the PROSE Award for Excellence Sociology and Social Work of the Association of American Publishers This study of Médecins Sans Frontières Doctors Without Borders MSF casts new light on the organization's founding principles distinctive culture and inner struggles to realize more fully its without borders transnational vision Pioneering medical sociologist Renée C Fox spent nearly twenty years conducting extensive ethnographic research within MSF a private international medical humanitarian organization that was created in 1971 and awarded the Nobel Prize for Peace in 1999 With unprecedented access Fox attended MSF meetings and observed doctors and other workers in the field She interviewed MSF members and participants and analyzed the content of such documents as communications between MSF staff members within the offices of its various headquarters communications between headquarters and the field and transcripts of internal group discussions and meetings Fox weaves these threads of information into a rich tapestry of the MSF experience that reveals the dual perspectives of an insider and an observer The book begins with moving detailed accounts from the blogs of women and men working for MSF in the field From there Fox chronicles the organization's early history and development paying special attention to its struggles during the first decades of its existence to clarify and implement its principles The core of the book is centered on her observations in the field of MSF's efforts to combat a rampant epidemic of HIV AIDS in postapartheid South Africa and the organization's response to two challenges in postsocialist Russia an enormous surge in homelessness on the streets of Moscow and a massive epidemic of tuberculosis in the penal colonies of Siberia Fox's accounts of these crises exemplify MSF's struggles to provide for thousands of people in need when both the populations and the aid workers are in danger Enriched by vivid photographs of MSF operations and by ironic self-critical cartoons drawn by a member of the Communications Department of MSF France Doctors Without Borders highlights the bold mission of the renowned international humanitarian organization even as it demonstrates the intrinsic dilemmas of humanitarian action

Nurturing Indonesia Hans Pols, 2018-08-09 Hans Pols proposes a new perspective on the history of colonial medicine from the viewpoint of indigenous physicians The Indonesian medical profession in the Dutch East Indies actively participated in political affairs by joining and leading nationalist associations by publishing in newspapers and magazines and by becoming members of city councils and the colonial parliament Indonesian physicians were motivated by their medical training their experiences as physicians and their subordinate position within the colonial health care system to organise lead and join social cultural and political associations Opening with the founding of Indonesia's first political association in 1908 and continuing with the initiatives of the Association of Indonesian Physicians Pols describes how the Rockefeller Foundation s projects inspired the formulation of a nationalist health programme Tracing the story through the Japanese annexation the war of independence and independent Indonesia Pols reveals the relationship between medicine and decolonisation and the role of physicians in Asian history web the vector b is parallel to a and points in the same direction if $\alpha > 0$ for $\alpha < 0$ the vector b is parallel to but points in the opposite direction antiparallel if we multiply an arbitrary vector a by the inverse of its magnitude $1/|a|$ we obtain a

2 6 the geometry of matrix transformations mathematics - Oct 05 2023

web sep 17 2022 consider the matrix transformation $T: \mathbb{R}^2 \rightarrow \mathbb{R}^2$ that assigns to a vector \mathbf{x} the closest vector on horizontal axis as illustrated in figure 2 6 20 this transformation is called the projection onto the horizontal axis matrices as transformations article khan academy - Oct 25 2022 web matrices as transformations of the plane google classroom learn how exactly 2×2 matrices act as transformations of the plane introduction if we think about a matrix as a transformation of space it can lead to a deeper understanding of matrix operations changing coordinate systems to help find a transformation matrix - Jan 28 2023

web and now that we know what d is we can now solve for a we can now solve for the transformation matrix with respect to the standard basis so to do that we have to figure out c and c^{-1} so c remember c is just the change of basis matrix and all that is is the basis vectors it's just a matrix with the basis vectors in the column coordinate transformations wikiversity - May 20 2022 web aug 8 2018 tensor transformation in two dimensions the intrinsic approach let construct an orthonormal basis of the second order tensor projected in the first order tensor the stress and strain tensors are now defined by and then once constructs the bound matrix in the orthonormal base with the rotation matrix in base coordinate transformations millersville university of pennsylvania - Aug 23 2022 web a translation by a nonzero vector is not a linear map because linear maps must send the zero vector to the zero vector however translations are very useful in performing coordinate transformations i ll introduce the following terminology for the composite of a linear transformation and a translation definition let A be a real matrix coordinate vector wikipedia - Jul 22 2022 web any vector v represented in B can be transformed to a representation in C as follows under the transformation of basis notice that the superscript on the transformation matrix M and the subscript on the coordinate vector v are the same and seemingly cancel leaving the remaining subscript

19 5 appendix coordinate transformations physics libretexts - Apr 18 2022 web jun 28 2021 the transformation matrix between coordinate systems having differing orientations is called the rotation matrix this transforms the components of any vector with respect to one coordinate frame to the components with respect to a second coordinate frame rotated with respect to the first frame matrices how to find coordinate vector of a linear transformation - Mar 18 2022 web jan 31 2023 how to find coordinate vector of a linear transformation ask question asked 8 months ago modified 8 months ago viewed 282 times 2 i m trying to find the coordinate vector of the following linear transformation $T: \mathbb{R}^3 \rightarrow \mathbb{R}^3$ in the following basis $\beta = \{ \begin{pmatrix} 1 \\ 1 \\ 1 \end{pmatrix}, \begin{pmatrix} 1 \\ 1 \\ 1 \end{pmatrix}, \begin{pmatrix} 1 \\ 1 \\ 1 \end{pmatrix} \}$ transforming vectors using matrices video khan academy - Feb 26 2023

web transforming vectors using matrices use matrices to transform 3d and 4d vectors transforming polygons using matrices transform polygons using matrices matrices as transformations matrix from visual representation of transformation visual representation of transformation from matrix understand matrices as
