Eu Consumer Rights Directive Evidence Volume 1 Eu Consumer Rights Directive Evidence Volume 1:

EU Consumer Rights Directive Great Britain: Parliament: House of Lords: European Union Committee, 2009-07-15 A review of the existing body of EU consumer law known as the consumer acquis culminated in the European Commission's publication of a draft Directive on consumer rights proposing to replace four of the existing Directives making up the consumer acquis. The draft Directive's aim is to simplify the existing regulatory framework and provide for a real business to consumer internal market balancing a high level of consumer protection with the competitiveness of enterprises. The Committee recommends that the Government withhold agreement from the proposal as drafted. It is unconvinced that it will deliver the desired boost in trade across borders and it may reduce the overall level of protection currently afforded to consumers. Further progress on the Directive should await a more complete impact assessment addressing issues such as the lack of concrete statistics underpinning this proposal and the exclusion of digital goods and pure services from its scope. The Committee agrees that there is a need to update the existing Directives not least due to inconsistencies between them over key definitions and the fragmentation of the business to consumer internal market that has resulted from Member States being able to introduce provisions that go beyond the minimum set down in the Directives. The Commission's solution is to apply the principle of full harmonisation but the Committee would prefer to see a more targeted use of this principle harmonising certain aspects but allowing Member States room for manoeuvre in other areas.

Compliance with European Consumer Law Felix Pflücke, 2024-08-25 European Consumer Law has adapted and evolved in response to the rapid growth of e-commerce in the last two decades. Compliance with European Consumer Law: The Case of E-Commerce examines the evolving legal framework at the EU and national levels from mandatory disclosures to unfair contract terms and analyses the extent to which scientifically grounded evidence or theories underpin these legislative choices. At the heart of the book lies an original data-driven inquiry assessing compliance among e-commerce traders with consumer protection rules. The empirical analysis investigates whether 300 traders from four jurisdictions (France, Germany, the Netherlands, and the United Kingdom) comply with their legal duties and identifies reasons for non-compliance. It translates the evidence of previously undiscovered non-compliance patterns into targeted and actionable policy recommendations, presenting a significant new interpretation of the regulatory landscape. Compliance with European Consumer Law offers a unique analytical perspective and contributes to a deeper understanding of e-commerce regulation. Innovative and engaging, this book advocates for a more evidence-driven approach within European Consumer Law aimed at strengthening the effectiveness of the rules and fostering trader compliance.

Chitty on Contracts, 31st edition volumes 1 & 2, Empirics and Consumer Law in Changing Markets Gitta Veldt, Kimia Heidary, Vanessa Mak, 2025-08-11 This book evaluates the impact of empirical research on regulation in contemporary consumer markets. It combines findings from a breadth of disciplines focusing on their implications for legal frameworks and policies. Bringing together leading experts in the field, the book translates empirical insights into policies and

The Stationery Office Annual Catalogue Stationery Office (Great Britain),2011 House of Commons - Business, Innovation and Skills Committee: Draft Consumer Rights Bill - HC 697-I Great Britain: Parliament: House of Commons: Business, Innovation and Skills Committee,2013-12-23 The Government s draft Consumer Rights Bill has the potential to consolidate simplify and modernise consumer law however issues and inconsistencies must be resolved The current proposals would apply a statutory right that services under a contract must be provided with reasonable care and skill a fault based standard This does not provide sufficient consumer protection The Draft Bill should require that services must achieve the stated result or one which could be reasonably expected an outcomes based standard As the Bank of Ireland case demonstrated the right to terminate a contract does not necessarily protect consumers from detriment This report recommends an addition to the grey list the indicative list of contract terms which may be regarded as unfair The Government s proposals for enhanced consumer measures which would require traders that have breached consumer law to compensate consumers are welcome However private enforcers should also be able to use them The collective proceedings regime has the potential to improve access to redress for victims of competition law breaches but the Government must clarify the certification requirements for such proceedings The creation of rights and remedies for digital content is welcome but the Government must do more to communicate how the proposals will work in practice Under the draft Bill the remedies available to consumers of digital content would depend on whether the content is intangible such as a music download or tangible such as a CD In appropriate circumstances consumers should have the right to reject and obtain a refund irrespective of whether they purchase intangible or tangible digital content Panorama of EU Industry 1997.
