Genetic Research On Addiction Ethics The Law And Public Health:

Genetic Research on Addiction Audrey R. Chapman, 2012 The manner in which genetic research associated with addiction is conducted interpreted and translated into clinical practice and policy initiatives raises important social ethical and legal issues Genetic Research on Addiction fulfils two key aims the first is to identify the ethical issues and requirements arising when carrying out genetically based addiction research and the second is to explore the ethical legal and public policy implications of interpreting translating and applying this research The book describes research guidelines on human protection issues such as improving the informed consent process protecting privacy responsibilities to minors and determining whether to accept industry funding The broader public health policy implications of the research are explored and guidelines offered for developing effective social interventions Highly relevant for clinicians researchers academics and policy makers in the fields of addiction mental health and public policy Provided by publisher An Existential

Phenomenology of Addiction Anna Westin, 2020-02-20 Existential phenomenology can be a particularly helpful philosophical method for understanding human experience Starting from the perspective of the subject it can clarify and problematize subtle everyday relations enabling greater insight into difficult situations Used by contemporary philosophers as a way of understanding the embodied experience of illness this method has been helpful for understanding physical illness in the medical humanities offering a fruitful way of reading the subjectivity of mental states An Existential Phenomenology of Addiction examines how the experience of addiction engages both mental and physical phenomena within the existence of a particular human life using the philosophy of Emmanuel Levinas and Søren Kierkegaard The book maps out an existential phenomenology of subject in relation Both Levinas and Kierkegaard use decidedly psychological and theological language to situate their philosophy discussing the subject through concepts of love otherness responsibility and hope while played out in a situation of anxiety suffering desire and revelation Combining existential phenomenological discourse with contemporary addiction discourse Westin argues that the concept of subject as addict as found in the Twelve Steps Program and disease models of addiction ought to be replaced with the free and relational identity of subject as addicted Routledge
