Generative Grammar and Linguistic Competence (RLE Linguistics B: Grammar) P.H. Matthews, 2014-02-03 According to Chomsky to learn a language is to develop a grammar for it a generative grammar which assigns a definite structure and a definite meaning to each of a definite set of sentences This forms the speaker's linguistic competence which represents a distinct faculty of the mind called the faculty of language This view has been widely criticised from many separate angles and by many different authors including some of Chomsky's pupils As one of the earliest and most persistent critics Professor Matthews is especially well placed to tie these arguments together He concludes that Chomsky's notion of competence finds no support within linguistics It can be defended if at all only by assuming a traditional philosophy of mind The notion of grammar should therefore be restricted to descriptive linguistics and should not have psychological interpretations foisted on it Peter Matthews book covers a variety of topics from morphology to speech acts from word meaning to the study of language variation and from blending in syntax to the relation of language and culture This wide range of subject matter is incisively handled in a style which is both elegant and economical in the English language Gender Acquisition in Spanish Jessica Diebowski,2021-04-06 The comparative investigation of the acquisition of gender in Spanish by early and late bilinguals of different language combinations is highly debated and crucial as the phenomenon of gender involves grammatical features that differ in all three languages under investigation Against this background both early and late bilinguals face an arduous learning task which differs in complexity Couched within a generative framework the empirical study focuses on 257 participants with different levels of proficiency in Spanish ranging from low to advanced and through a series of tests aims to discover which extra linguistic and intra linguistic factors act as triggers for non native outcomes in adult heritage speakers and L2 learners The observed morphological variability is argued not to stem from a representational i e syntactic deficit but rather from a mapping problem in L2 learners and heritage speakers Successful attainment in terms of gender is possible but dependent on the interplay between various extralinguistic and linguistic factors
