Race, Place, and the Law, 1836-1948 David Delaney, 1998 Black and white Americans have occupied separate spaces

since the days of the big house and the quarters But the segregation and racialization of American society was not a natural phenomenon that just happened The decisions enacted into laws that kept the races apart and restricted blacks to less desirable places sprang from legal reasoning which argued that segregated spaces were right reasonable and preferable to other arrangements In this book David Delaney explores the historical intersections of race place and the law Drawing on court cases spanning more than a century he examines the moves and countermoves of attorneys and judges who participated in the geopolitics of slavery and emancipation in the development of Jim Crow segregation which effectively created apartheid laws in many cities and in debates over the doctrine of changed conditions which challenged the legality of restrictive covenants and private contracts designed to exclude people of color from white neighborhoods This historical investigation yields new insights into the patterns of segregation that persist in American society today

Social Sciences Research Journal ,2016 Elements of Useful Knowledge, Vol.I. Noah Webster,1815 Geography and Identity Dennis Crow,1996 Mapping and Historiography in Contemporary Canadian Literature in English Nicola Renger,2005 This study focuses on the way in which Canadian novels of the 1980s and 1990s use mapping and historiography as themes metaphors and narrative models While John Steffler s The Afterlife of George Cartwright reveals the past influence of colonial ideology on mapping and historiography and its lasting effects Daphne Marlatt s Ana Historic challenges patriarchal mappings and historiographies In In the Skin of a Lion Michael Ondaatje portrays Canada in the early twentieth century as a capitalist society determined by colonial attitudes Ondaatje s The English Patient illustrates the difficulty of defining an individual or communal identity in the postcolonial age of globalisation The analysis of these representative novels is complemented by references to further Canadian works which reveal that Canadian literature mirrors and promotes current debates on the construction of reality and on multicultural and global identities

Prolegomena to an Idealist Theory of Knowledge Norman Kemp Smith,1924 Human Geography Derek Gregory,Ron Martin,Graham Smith,1994 Aimed at a broad student readership this book focuses on developments in social scientific theory of particular significance in rethinking human geography and on the contribution the geographical imagination can make to good social science

BOOK JACKET

Key Methods in Geography Nicholas Clifford,Gill Valentine,2003-06-06 Key Methods in Geography is an introduction for undergraduates to the principal methodological issues involved in the collection analysis and presentation of geographical information It provides an accessible primer which will be used by students as a reference throughout their degree on all issues from research design to presentation A unique feature of the book is that it provides definitions of terms from both human geography and physical geography Organized into four parts Getting Started in Geographical Research Data Collection in Human Geography Data Collection in Physical Geography Analyzing and Representing Geographical Data Each chapter is comprised of a short definition a summary of the principal arguments a substantive 5 000 word discussion the use of real life examples and annotated notes for further reading The teaching of research methods is integral in all geography courses Key Methods in Geography identifies the key analytical and observational strategies with which all geography undergraduates should be conversant Geographies of Judgment David P. Delaney,1995 Environment and Planning,2008 Subjectivities, Knowledges, and Feminist Geographies Liz Bondi,2002-07-31 Research about people always makes assumptions about the nature of humans as subjects This collaboration by a group of feminist researchers looks at subjectivity in relation to researchers the researched and audiences as well as at the connections between subjectivity and knowledge The authors argue that subjectivity is spatialized in embodied multiple and fractured ways challenging the dominant notions of the rational bounded subject A highly original contribution to feminist geography this book is equally relevant to social science debates about using qualitative methodologies and to ongoing discussions on the ethics of social research Circles of Dignity James R. Cochrane,1999 Deeply challenging to the religious and social status quo this work searches for a new understanding of religion s role in our time of massive social economic and geopolitical change Guide by his remarkable experience with South African indigenous groups and popular religion the author shows how marginalized people read the Bible and how their local wisdom or incipient theologies offers new perspectives on power tradition and God as well as new notions of ministry Church and religion s role in the public sphere Leveraging the insights at the margin to displace the centre this work is a blueprint for a socially transformative theology
