Person-Centered Outcome Metrology William P. Fisher, Jr., Stefan J. Cano, 2022-12-02 This unique collection of chapters from world experts on person centered outcome PCO measures addresses the following critical questions Can individual experiences be represented in measurements that do not reduce unique differences to meaningless uniformity How person centric are PCO measures Are PCO measurements capable of delivering the kind of quality assured quantification required for high stakes decision making Are PCO measures likely to support improved health care delivery Have pivotal clinical studies failed to deliver treatments for diseases because of shortcomings in the PCO measures used Are these shortcomings primarily matters of precision and meaningfulness Or is the lack of common languages for communicating outcomes also debilitating to quality improvement research and the health care economy Three key issues form an urgent basis for further investigation First the numbers generated by PCO measures are increasingly used as the central dependent variables upon which high stakes decisions are made The rising profile of PCO measures places new demands for higher quality information from scale and test construction evaluation selection and interpretation Second PCO measurement science has well established lessons to be learned from those who have built and established the science over many decades Finally the goal in making a PCO measurement is to inform outcome management As such it is vitally important that key stakeholders understand that over the last half century developments in psychometrics have refocused measurement on illuminating clinically important individual differences in the context of widely reproduced patterns of variation in health and functioning comparable scale values for quality improvement and practical explanatory models This book s audience includes anyone interested in person centered care including healthcare researchers and practitioners policy

Motor Control in Everyday Actions Timothy D. Lee, 2011-05-05. Motor Control in Everyday Actions presents 47 true stories that illustrate the phenomena of motor control learning perception and attention in sport physical activity home and work environments. At times humorous and sometimes sobering this unique text provides an accessible application to research approach to spark critical thinking class discussion and new ideas for research. The stories in Motor Control in Everyday Actions illustrate the diversity and complexity of research in perception and action and motor skill acquisition. More than interesting anecdotes these stories offer concrete examples of how motor behavior motor control and perception and action errors affect the lives of both well known and ordinary individuals in various situations and environments. Readers will be entertained with real life stories that illustrate how research in motor control is applicable to real life. Choking Under Pressure examines information processing and how it changes under pressure. The Gimme Putt shows how Schmidt's law can be used to predict the accuracy of golf putts. Turn Right at the Next Gorilla examines inattention blindness and its role in traffic accidents. The Farmers Market describes reasons why a man drives his car through a crowded open air market killing and injuring dozens of shoppers in the process. Craps and Weighted Bats describes the curious role of myths and superstition in how we play games. And 42 other examples of motor control in everyday actions will both entertain and inform. Each story is followed by a set of self directed activities that are progressively more complex. These activities plus the additional notes and suggested readings and websites at the conclusion of each story provide a starting point for critical thinking about the reasons why human actions sometimes go awry. A reader friendly writing style and easy to follow analysis and conclusions assist students in gaining mastery of the issues presented conceptualizing new research projects and applying the content to current research. The stories are grouped into three parts beginning with situations involving errors and mistakes in perception action or decision making. Next stories investigating varied techniques for studying perception and action are presented. The remaining scenarios provide readers with a look at research focusing on the motor learning process as well as some of the unexpected discoveries resulting from those investigations. Motor Control in Everyday Actions will engage its readers not only through the central topic of the story but also in the fundamental concepts involving perception action and learning. Used as a springboard for new research or as a catalyst for engaging discussion Motor Control in Everyday Actions offers perspectives that will enhance understanding of how human beings interact with their world.
