Core Strengths of the Passage

- 1 Clear Architectural Breakdown The excerpt clearly and correctly identifies the three fundamental components of web application architecture The Client Correctly identifies this as the initiation point for requests web browser or mobile app The Server Describes its role as the processor of requests and the router to back end services The Database Recognizes its function in storing and managing data and correctly notes the diversity of database types SQL vs NoSQL This foundational clarity is essential for a book that will subsequently discuss exploits as it establishes the target areas for attacks
