Contesting Global Environmental Knowledge, Norms and Governance M. J. Peterson, 2019-01-08

Through theoretical discussions and case studies this volume explores how processes of contestation about knowledge norms and governance processes shape efforts to promote sustainability through international environmental governance The epistemic communities literature of the 1990s highlighted the importance of expert consensus on scientific knowledge for problem definition and solution specification in international environmental agreements This book addresses a gap in this literature insufficient attention to the multiple forms of contestation that also inform international environmental governance These forms include within discipline contestation that helps forge expert consensus inter disciplinary contestation regarding the types of expert knowledge needed for effective response to environmental problems normative and practical arguments about the proper roles of experts and laypersons and contestation over how to combine globally developed norms and scientific knowledge with locally prevalent norms and traditional knowledge in ways ensuring effective implementation of environmental policies This collection advances understanding of the conditions under which contestation facilitates or hinders the development of effective global environmental governance The contributors examine how attempts to incorporate more than one stream of expert knowledge and to include lay knowledge alongside it have played out in efforts to create and maintain multilateral agreements relating to environmental concerns It will interest scholars and graduate students of political science global governance international environmental politics and global policy making Policy analysts should also find it useful

Landscape Planning with Ecosystem Services Christina von Haaren, Andrew A. Lovett, Christian Albert, 2019-06-25

Human well being depends in many ways on maintaining the stock of natural resources which deliver the services from which human s benefit However these resources and flows of services are increasingly threatened by unsustainable and competing land uses Particular threats exist to those public goods whose values are not well represented in markets or whose deterioration will only affect future generations As market forces alone are not sufficient effective means for local and regional planning are needed in order to safeguard scarce natural resources coordinate land uses and create sustainable landscape structures This book argues that a solution to such challenges in Europe can be found by merging the landscape planning tradition with ecosystem services concepts Landscape planning has strengths in recognition of public benefits and implementation mechanisms while the ecosystem services approach makes the connection between the status of natural assets and human well being more explicit It can also provide an economic perspective focused on individual preferences and benefits which helps validate the acceptability of environmental planning goals Thus linking landscape planning and ecosystem services provides a two way benefit creating a usable science to meet the needs of local and regional decision making The book is structured around the Driving forces Pressures States Impacts Responses framework providing an introduction to relevant concepts methodologies and techniques It presents a new ecosystem services informed approach to landscape planning that constitutes both a framework and toolbox for students and practitioners to address the environmental and landscape challenges of 21st century Europe Agroecology Stephen R. Gliessman, V. Ernesto Méndez, Victor M. Izzo, Eric W. Engles, 2022-09-30 Agroecology is at the forefront of transforming our food systems This bestselling textbook provides the essential foundation for understanding this transformation in all its components agricultural ecological economic social cultural and political It presents a case for food system change explains the principles and practices underlying the ecological approach to food production and lays out a vision for a food system based on equity and greater compatibility with the planet s life support systems New to the fourth edition A chapter on Alternatives to Industrial Agriculture covering the similarities and distinctions among different approaches to sustainable agriculture A chapter on Ecological Pest Weed and Disease Management A chapter on Urban and Peri urban Agriculture A chapter on Agriculture and the Climate Crisis A revised analysis and critique of the food system s embeddedness in the extractive capitalist world economy that reflects ideas in the emerging field of political agroecology Streamlined treatment of agroecology s foundations in ecological science making the text more compatible with typical course curricula A Companion Website at <https://routledgetextbooks.com/textbooks/9781032187105> incorporates the entire contents of the updated practical manual Field and Laboratory Investigations in Agroecology split into student and lecturer resources These 24 sample investigations facilitate hands on learning that involves close observation creative interpretation and constant questioning of findings Groundbreaking in its first edition and established as the definitive text in its second and third the fourth edition of Agroecology captures recent developments in the field and forcefully applies the idea that agroecology is a science a movement and a practice Written by a team of experts this book will encourage students and practitioners to consider the critical importance of transitioning to a new paradigm for food and agriculture Oak Seed Dispersal Michael A. Steele, 2021-01-05 The definitive examination of oak forest evolutionary ecology Seed dispersal is a critical stage in the life cycle of most flowering plants The process can have far reaching effects on a species biology especially numerous aspects of its ecology and evolution This is particularly the case for the oaks in which the dispersal of the acorn is tied to numerous tree characteristics as well as the behavior and ecology of the animals that feed on and move these seeds to their final destination Forest structure composition and genetics often follow directly from the dispersal process while also influencing it in turn In Oak Seed Dispersal Michael A. Steele draws on three decades of field research across the globe e g the United States Mexico Central America Europe and China to describe the interactions between oaks and their seed consumers Rodents birds and insects he writes collectively influence the survival movement and germination of acorns as well as the establishment of seedlings often indicating a coevolutionary bond between oaks and their seed consumers This bond can only be understood by unraveling the complex interactions that occur in the context of factors such as partial seed consumption due to acorn chemistry scatterhoarding predation of the seed consumers by other organisms and the limiting effects of masting on insect rodent and jay damage Offering new insights on how animal mediated dispersal drives ecological and evolutionary processes in forest ecosystems Oak Seed Dispersal also includes an overview of threatened oak forests across the globe and explains how a lack of acorn dispersal contributes to many important conservation challenges Highly illustrated the book includes photographs of key dispersal organisms and tactics as well as a foreword by Stephen B Vander Wall a leading authority on food hoarding and animal mediated seed dispersal and beautiful artwork by Tad C Theimer also an accomplished ecologist
