Ebook Principles Housing Peter King:

Thinking on Housing Peter King, 2017-02-17 If we do stop to think on housing what do we see What is housing and what does it do These seem deceptively simple questions but they are often left unanswered The reason for this is that a lot of discourse on housing is really a concern for policy making and the critical evaluation of existing policies Discourse is not properly speaking on housing at all It is concerned with provision distribution and access but this thinking on housing stops at the front door It is only concerned with what is actually external to housing But for most people housing already exists and they have access to it Housing is not then about policy but about how we can use what is a complex object in a manner that allows us to live well Housing for most of us is about what we do when the front door is firmly shut and we are free from the external world These essays explore this idea of housing as an object that exists for use Housing is pictured as an object that contains activity These pieces look at what we do with housing once we have it and so provides a necessary underpinning for any understanding of why housing is important A further purpose of these pieces is to present different ways of thinking and writing on housing It is an attempt to show that housing is a suitable topic for philosophical discourse It is suggested that we can and should seek to establish a philosophy of housing rather than just relying on the traditional social sciences Place and Identity Joanna Richardson, 2018-09-05 The UK is experiencing a housing crisis unlike any other Homelessness is on the increase and more people are at the mercy of landlords due to unaffordable housing Place and Identity Home as Performance highlights that the meaning of home is not just found within the bricks and mortar it is constructed from the network of place space and identity and the negotiation of conflict between those it is not a fixed space but a link with land ancestry and culture This book fuses philosophy and the study of home based on many years of extensive research Richardson looks at how the notion of home or perhaps the lack of it can affect identity and in turn the British housing market This book argues that the concept of home and physical housing are intrinsically linked and that until government and wider society understand the importance of home in relation to housing the crisis is only likely to get worse This book will be essential reading for postgraduate students whose interest is in housing and social policy as well as appealing to those working in the areas of implementing and changing policy within government and professional spaces Speculations on the Question: What Is Housing? Peter King, 2022-01-31 This book consists of a single essay that speculates on the question what is housing and its opposite question what is not housing The essay is organised around two distinct discourses around which housing can be framed The first which is the dominant discourse is what I term policy thinking This is where housing is seen solely in terms of policy formulation and action The second discourse is private dwelling which describes housing in terms of a private space used by households Private dwelling might be seen as a product of policy but in actuality it precedes policy thinking in being the very purpose of policy Having made this distinction between policy thinking and private dwelling and so stated in principle what housing is the subsequent sections of the essay explore the nature of private dwelling in more detail and so substantiate the distinction between the two forms of discourse Social Justice in Contemporary Housing Helen Taylor, 2018-09-03 Philosophy is not usually seen as a guidance for modern housing policy but in this new book Dr Helen Taylor argues that there is something innovative unusual and worth discussing about the application of philosophy to housing The philosophical framework used within this book is John Rawls conception of justice as fairness The UK has gone through several shifts in housing policy over the past decade most recently by introducing the controversial Bedroom Tax in an effort to make more cuts to benefits and social welfare Social Justice in Contemporary Housing Applying Rawls Difference Principle suggests that by using ideas of agency we can understand the impact that social policy has on individuals and wider society The work outlines the liberal principle of legitimacy and argues that Rawls concept of reasonableness can and should be used to justify the intervention of policy in individuals lives This book will be of interest to undergraduate and postgraduate students of housing as well as philosophy and social policy and also those working around the creation and implementation of social housing in the UK The British National Bibliography Arthur James Wells, 1969 Who's who in Finance and Business , 2008 Affordable Housing in King County King County Growth Management Planning Council. Affordable Housing Task Force, 1994 The Principles and Practice of Modern House-construction George Lister Sutcliffe, 1898* The Principles and Practice of Modern House-construction , 1902 The Principles and Practice of Modern House-construction George Lister Sutcliffe, 1899
