Retrotopia Zygmunt Bauman, 2017-03-06 We have long since lost our faith in the idea that human beings could achieve human happiness in some future ideal state a state that Thomas More writing five centuries ago tied to a topos a fixed place a land an island a sovereign state under a wise and benevolent ruler But while we have lost our faith in utopias of all hues the human aspiration that made this vision so compelling has not died Instead it is re emerging today as a vision focused not on the future but on the past not on a future to be created but on an abandoned and undead past that we could call retrotopia The emergence of retrotopia is interwoven with the deepening gulf between power and politics that is a defining feature of our contemporary liquid modern world the gulf between the ability to get things done and the capability of deciding what things need to be done a capability once vested with the territorially sovereign state This deepening gulf has rendered nation states unable to deliver on their promises giving rise to a widespread disenchantment with the idea that the future will improve the human condition and a mistrust in the ability of nation states to make this happen True to the utopian spirit retrotopia derives its stimulus from the urge to rectify the failings of the present human condition though now by resurrecting the failed and forgotten potentials of the past Imagined aspects of the past genuine or putative serve as the main landmarks today in drawing the road map to a better world Having lost all faith in the idea of building an alternative society of the future many turn instead to the grand ideas of the past buried but not yet dead Such is retrotopia the contours of which are examined by Zygmunt Bauman in this sharp dissection of our contemporary romance with the past The Reliability of Generating Data Klaus

Krippendorff, 2022-12-23 All data are the result of human actions whether by experimentations observations or declarations As such the presumption of knowing what data are about is subject to imperfections that can affect the validity of research efforts With calls for data based research comes the need to assure the reliability of generated data The reliability of converting texts into analyzable data has become a burning issue in several areas However this issue has been met by only a few limited and sometimes misleading measures of the extent to which data can be trusted as surrogates of the phenomena of analytical interests The statistic proposed by the author Krippendorff's Alpha is widely used in the social sciences not only where human judgements are involved but also where measurements are compared The Reliability of Generating Data expands on the author's seminal work in content analysis and develops methods for assessing the reliability of the kind of data that previously defied evaluations for this purpose It opens with a discussion of the epistemology of reliable data then presents the most basic alpha coefficient for the single valued coding of predefined units This largely familiar way of measuring reliability provides the platform for the succeeding chapters which start with an overview of alternative coefficients and then expand alpha one quality after another including to cope with the reliabilities of multi valued coding segmenting texts into meaningful units big data and information retrievals It also includes a chapter on how to diagnose and remedy imperfections and one on applicable standards all converging on the statistical issues of the reliability of generating data Features Provides an overview of methods for assessing the reliability of generating data Expands a statistic proposed by the author already widely used in the social sciences Includes many easy to follow numerical examples to illustrate the measures Written to be useful to beginning and advanced researchers from many disciplines notably linguistics sociology psychometric and educational research and medical science Traffic Marion Näser-Lather, Christoph Neubert, 2015-10-14

Traffic Media as Infrastructures and Cultural Practices presents a collection of texts by distinguished international media and cultural scholars that addresses fundamental relationships between the logistic symbolic and infrastructural dimensions of media. The volume discusses the role of traffic and infrastructures within the history of media theory as well as in a broader cultural context. Traffic is shown to constitute an important epistemological and technical principle, a paradigm for exchanges and circulations between discursive and non discursive cultural practices. This opens an encompassing perspective of media ecology and at the same time illuminates the formative power of traffic as structuring time and space. Material and informational traffic creates, maintains and undermines power, configures meaning and facilitates appropriation and resistance. Making Value Timothy D. Taylor, 2024-03-18 Timothy D. Taylor theorizes music's economic and noneconomic forms of value to examine how people's conceptions of value inform and shape their production and consumption of music.

Retrotopía Zygmunt Bauman, 2017-04-04 Hace tiempo que perdimos la fe en la idea de que las personas podríamos alcanzar la felicidad humana en un estado futuro ideal. Pero aunque hayamos perdido la fe en las utopías, lo que no ha muerto es la aspiración humana que ha hecho que ese tipo de imagen resulten tan cautivadoras. De hecho, dicha idea está resurgiendo de nuevo como una imagen centrada ya no en el futuro sino en el pasado, un pasado abandonado y redivivo que podríamos llamar retrotopía. Fiel al espíritu, la retrotopía es el anhelo de rectificación de los defectos de la actual situación humana, aunque en este caso resucitando los malogrados y olvidados potenciales del pasado. Son los aspectos imaginados de ese pasado reales o presuntos los que sirven hoy de puntos de referencia a la hora de trazar la ruta hacia un mundo mejor.

The Oxford Handbook of Networked Communication Brooke Foucault Welles, Sandra González-Bailón, 2020 Online communication technologies have opened up a new world of research questions about how people form relationships, organize into groups and communities and navigate the boundaries between public and private life. This handbook brings together research from a variety of disciplines that examine these questions through the lens of new data. The result is a new theoretical framework that capitalizes on the constantly pulsating signals of networked communication and offers an innovative approach to the study of human behavior and opinion formation. The Diapason Siegfried Emanuel Gruenstein, 1951 Includes music. Media Localism Christopher Ali, 2017-02-03 We live in a boosterish era that exhorts us to play local and buy local. But what does it mean to support local media? How should we define local media in the first place? Christopher Ali delves into our ideas about localism and their far-reaching repercussions for the discourse of federal media policy and regulation. His critique focuses on the new interest in localism among regulators in the United States, the United Kingdom and Canada. As he shows, the many different and often contradictory meanings of localism complicate efforts to study local voices. At the same time, market factors and regulators' unwillingness to critically examine local media blunt challenges to the status quo. Ali argues that reconciling the places where we live with the spaces we inhabit will point regulators toward effective policies that strengthens local media That new approach will again elevate local media to its rightful place as a vital part of the public good Gabriel Tarde Matei Candea, 2013
