Economic Sanctions R. Eyler, 2007-12-09 This book looks at economic sanctions using a political economy foundation The author investigates the effectiveness of sanctions and the human suffering caused by them from a political and economic vantage addressing political decisions case studies and game theory explanations as well as discussing the future of sanctions as statecraft

International Economic Sanctions William H Kaempfer, Anton D Lowenberg, 1992-09-16 The incidence of sanctioning behaviour is generally on the increase internationally This study introduces analyzes and seeks to clarify the issues that are fundamental to an understanding of the subject The authors argue that only a public choice analysis with its emphasis on politics can answer three important questions about sanctions why in the light of their weak economic impacts are they being used more and more frequently why is it that they take the particular forms they do and why are they often successful even when their economic impact is slight

The Political Economy of Regional Peacemaking Steven E. Lobell, Norrin M. Ripsman, 2016-02-02 In The Political Economy of Regional Peacemaking scholars examine the efficacy of trade agreements economic sanctions and other strategies of economic statecraft for the promotion of peace both between rival states and across conflict ridden regions more generally In the introduction Steven E Lobell and Norrin M Ripsman pose five central questions 1 What types of economic statecraft including incentives and sanctions can interested parties employ 2 Who are the appropriate targets in the rival states state leaders economic and social elites or society as whole 3 When should specific economic instruments be used to promote peace prior to negotiations during negotiations after signature of the treaty or during implementation of the treaty 4 What are the limits and risks of economic statecraft and economic interdependence 5 How can economic statecraft be used to move from a bilateral peace agreement to regional peace The chapters that follow are grouped in three sections corresponding to the three stages of peacemaking reduction or management of regional conflict peacemaking or progress toward a peace treaty and maintenance of bilateral peace and the regionalization of the peace settlement In each chapter the contributors consider the five key questions from a variety of methodological historical cultural and empirical perspectives drawing data from the Pacific the Middle East Europe Asia and Latin America The conclusion expands on several themes found in the chapters and proposes an agenda for future research
