Discrete-event Simulation Based Resource Modelling in Health Technology Assessment Abdul Rahman Syed Salleh, 2019 R for Health Technology Assessment Gianluca Baio, Howard Thom, Petros Pechlivanoglou, 2025-06-30 R for Health Technology Assessment discusses the use of proper statistical software specifically R to perform the whole pipeline of analytic modelling in health technology assessment HTA It has been designed with the objective of establishing the use of R as the standard tool for HTA amongst academics industry practitioners and regulators It covers a lot of ground starting with the necessary background in HTA R and statistical inference followed by various modelling tools ranging from missing data survival analysis and decision trees through to multistate models and discrete event simulation The methods are all illustrated with many detailed worked examples and case studies using real data and there are detailed descriptions of the code and processes Key Features Introductory chapters on the various topics of the book including HTA R and statistical inference A wide range of common analytical tools used in HTA from modelling for individual level data missing data survival analysis decision modelling and network meta analysis More advanced and increasingly popular tools such as those for population adjustment discrete event simulation and the use of web applications as front end for the overall statistical modelling Many detailed worked examples and case studies using real data to illustrate the methodology Fully integrated R code gives detailed guidance on implementation of the techniques Supplemented by a website with additional resources including annotated code and data This text is primarily aimed at modellers working in the field of HTA regulators and reviewers of reimbursement dossiers and cost effectiveness analyses It also complements a wide range of undergraduate and graduate programmes in HTA health and public health economics as well as academic researchers in the field of statistical modelling for HTA

Hospital-Based Health Technology Assessment Laura Sampietro-Colom, Janet Martin, 2017-01-23 A timely work describing how localized hospital based health technology assessment HB HTA complements general arms length HTA agency efforts and what has been the collective global impact of HB HTA across the globe While HB HTA has gained significant momentum over the past few years expertise in the field and information on the operation and organization of HB HTA has been scattered This book serves to bring this information together to inform those who are currently working in the field of HTA at the hospital regional national or global level In addition this book is intended for decision makers and policy makers with a stake in determining the uptake and decommissioning of new and established technologies in the hospital setting HTA has traditionally been performed at the National Regional level by HTA Agencies typically linked to governments Yet hospitals are the main entry door for most health technologies HTs Hospital decision makers must undertake multiple high stakes investment and disinvestment decisions annually for innovative HTs usually without adequate information Despite the existence of arms length HTA Agencies inadequate information is available to hospital decision makers either because relevant HTA reports are not yet released at the time of entry of new technologies to the field or because even when the report exists the information contained is insufficient to clarify the contextualized informational needs of hospital decision makers Therefore there has recently been a rising trend toward hospital based HTA units and programs These units programs complement the work of National Regional HTA Agencies by providing the key and relevant evidence needed by hospital decision makers in their specific hospital context and within required decision making timelines The emergence of HB HTA is creating a comprehensive HTA ecosystem across health care levels which creates better bridges for knowledge translation through relevance and timeliness

Decision Technology Matthew Liberatore, Robert Nydick, 2003 The authors use Lingo Expert Choice Extend and MS Project 2000 to introduce decision technology This offers a flexible approach to math programming formulations
