Visual Pedagogies

,2022-12-12 This international collection presents theoretical empirical and practice led considerations of what can be envisioned as visual pedagogies offering classic creative and contemporary re workings of these paradigms In complementary yet overlapping parts this book explores understandings of visual pedagogies as learning with through and or about images visual and digital environments embodied performances and immersive experiences As visual practices in academia gain momentum the need to navigate visuality in ways that enhance sensibility and awareness of how what we observe analyze criticize and reflect on in any given moment continues to grow We understand visual pedagogies as nomadic in the sense that the how and the what of image centered learning is not separable What does this mean First it means recognizing pedagogical practices as always already implicated In other words the form itself carries its own message Visual pedagogies respond to and are actualized within the cultural contexts in which they are working At the same time they carry the possibilities of being taken up in diverse ways beyond one particular context As living morphing practices visual pedagogies expand on contextual affordances while at the same time providing the means of exceeding them Thus there are folk literacies in perpetual movement that are producing visual pedagogies where points of traction for theorizing and research can form These then can be mobilized as springboards for analysis and examination of how visual pedagogies become apparent This book takes up multiple diverse contexts through an international selection of authors The parts work to address conceptual empirical and practical considerations through different emphases yet in conversation with each other

Productive Multivocality in the Analysis of Group Interactions Daniel D. Suthers, Kristine Lund, Carolyn Penstein Rosé, Chris Teplovs, Nancy Law, 2013-12-02 The key idea of the book is that scientific and practical advances can be obtained if researchers working in traditions that have been assumed to be mutually incompatible make a real effort to engage in dialogue with each other comparing and contrasting their understandings of a given phenomenon and how these different understandings can either complement or mutually elaborate on each other This key idea applies to many fields particularly in the social and behavioral sciences as well as education and computer science The book shows how we have achieved this by presenting our study of collaborative learning during the course of a four year project Through a series of five workshops involving dozens of researchers the 37 editors and authors involved in this project studied and reported on collaborative learning technology enhanced learning and cooperative work The authors share an interest in understanding group interactions but approach this topic from a variety of traditional disciplinary homes and theoretical and methodological traditions This allows the book to be of use to researchers in many different fields and with many different goals and agendas
