Girls, Delinquency, and Juvenile Justice Meda Chesney-Lind, Randall G. Shelden, 2004 Filling a tremendous gap in criminological literature Girls Delinquency and Juvenile Justice focuses on the special problems delinquent girls face within our criminal justice system and exposes the system's failed attempts to apply male oriented theories to the delinquency of females. Authors Meda Chesney Lind and Randall G. Sheldon include the relevance of classic theories of delinquency to female juveniles and an impressive amount of historical data and numerous contemporary studies to show that often mainstream theories and approaches don't work with female juveniles and ten in depth interviews with delinquent girls who share their experiences in the criminal justice system. In addition to greater theoretical development this second edition has been thoroughly updated with a separate chapter on girls in gangs, important new statistics and more information on the use of drugs and alcohol, drug addicted babies, the impact of the newest legislation and the relative success of alternative programs to incarceration.

The Fellas Charles M. Terry, 2003. An engaging writer, Chuck Terry presents this powerful study on the tremendous obstacles that drug addicts drifting in and out of prison must overcome in order to get clean and make it in society. Thoroughly researched and based on sound theory, this text covers how societal reaction to drugs and addiction shape criminal policy and behavior. Terry's powerful voice as a writer brings each of the fellas to life as he tells their story on how they became addicts and documents their ongoing struggle with addiction both in and out of prison. Terry follows the story of the fellas as they beat the odds, get clean and try to make a better life for themselves. And he tells the somber story of those who are not able to overcome the obstacles of drugs and prison.
